Our PDS provides further information on costs with working examples on how they may affect your trading. The applicable costs may change from time to time and you should refer to our website www.synergymarkets.com for the current fees, charges and commission rates.

6.2 Commissions

Commissions may be applicable to individual financial products. For other types of financial products, We will make our earnings from spreads which are factored into the price we charge you (see section 6.3 below).

6.3 Spread

The spread is the difference between the Bid price at which We buy an instrument and the Ask price at which We sell the same instrument. It is the minimum amount that the market needs to move in your favour before you can break even. The spread may be subject to fluctuation depending on the market conditions.

6.4 Swap Rate

If you hold a Margin FX or CFD contract open overnight (the end of day is treated as the International trading day end of 5pm New York time) you may either receive or pay an amount depending on the interest rate differential between the two currencies in question, the notional value of the position and the spread that We apply when calculating the swap rates.

If you hold a position from a Wednesday to Thursday, the swap related benefit/charge will be for three days to cover the week due to the fact that the settlement on the spot foreign exchange market is done on a T + 2 basis.

6.5 Currency Conversion

Where you trade on a Margin FX or CFD contract that is denominated in a currency different to the base currency of your Account, the profit and loss will be automatically converted back to the base currency of your Account upon the closure of the position.

6.6 Referrals

If you have been introduced to us by a third party, we may be required to share a percentage of the commission or other charge with the referring party.

Should such payments fall within the scope of the conflicted remuneration provisions of the Corporations Act, we will not make any payments unless and until we have obtained your consent. We will also provide details of these payments upon your written request.
